Information on Cookies

www.emcu.eu uses cookies to ensure the correct functioning of the procedures and improve the experience of using the services offered online.

This document provides detailed information on the use of cookies, how they are used and how to manage them.

- Definitions

Cookies are small text files (letters and / or numbers) that websites, when visited, transmit to the user's computer (tablet, smartphone, etc ...).

Cookies are stored by the browser (Firefox, Internet Explorer, Chrome, Opera, etc ...) as information to be reused during the visit to the site (session cookies) or in subsequent sessions, even after some time (persistent cookies) .

Ultimately, cookies come stored, based on user preferences, by the single browser on the specific device used (computer, tablet, smartphone).

Similar technologies, such as, for example, web beacons, transparent GIFs and all forms of local storage introduced with HTML5, can be used to collect information on user behavior and the use of services. Later in this document we will refer to cookies and all similar technologies by simply using the term "Cookies".

- Types of cookies

Based on the characteristics and use of cookies we can distinguish different categories:

- Technical Cookies.

These are cookies that are essential for the proper functioning of www.emcu.eu

They are used to guarantee and facilitate normal navigation and use of www.emcu.eu

These cookies allow, for example, to authenticate (automatic login), to remember some selected criteria such as the language, to remember the discussions already read in the forums, to collect some information in aggregate form about users, etc ...

Technical cookies can be temporary (session duration of navigation) or persist over time, even for months and even more (persistent).

Their deactivation compromises the effective use of some services (pre-set login, discussions already read, chosen options, etc ...).

Among the technical cookies we also find analysis and performance cookies, which are used to collect and analyze the traffic and use of the site anonymously.

These cookies do not identify the user and also allow you to monitor the system and improve its performance and usability. The deactivation of these cookies can be performed without any loss of functionality.

- Profiling cookies.

These are permanent cookies used to identify (anonymously or not) user preferences and improve their browsing experience.

- Third Party Cookies.

By visiting a website you may receive cookies from both the visited site ("owners") and from external sites managed by other organizations ("third parties"). Some examples are represented by the presence of buttons of "Sharing" or "like" relating to social media plugins, such as Facebook, Twitter, Google+ and LinkedIn, etc ... Other examples are: Google Analytics external statistics services; Google AdSense advertising banners, etc ... Basically these external services write cookies on the user's computer through the site that hosts them. The www.emcu.eu portal provides for the use of third-party cookies.

- More details on third-party cookies

The management of the information collected by "third parties" is governed by the relevant information to which reference should be made.

they can also write other profiling cookies by name and on behalf of advertisers, also variable over time.

An example could be the .agkn.com domain which writes cookies: uuid (persistent for 5 years) and the u cookie persistent for one year. Another example is the .serving-sys.com domain which writes cookies: A6, C5, D2, u2 (with quarterly persistence). Other examples of persistent profiling cookies can be the domain .adnxs.com with the cookies anj .adnxs.com and sess, or the domain .yahoo.com with the cookie B. Obviously, other cookies are possible depending on the advertiser companies. By blocking Adsense (banner advertising) you also block these third-party cookies from third parties.

- Cookie management (enabling and disabling)

The user can decide whether or not to accept cookies using the settings on his browser. Attention: the total or partial disabling of technical cookies can compromise the use of the site features reserved for registered users. On the contrary, the usability of public content is also possible by completely disabling cookies. Disabling "third party" cookies does not affect navigability but could reduce the services offered (for example the buttons of the "share" of social media). The setting can be defined specifically for different websites and web applications. Furthermore, the best browsers allow you to define different settings for "proprietary" and "third party" cookies. You can avoid certain cookies by configuring your browser settings or by directly deactivating the part that manages and controls cookies. Here's how to proceed for the main browsers:

Google Chrome

- In the settings menu, select "Show advanced settings" at the bottom of the page
- Select the "settings content" button in the privacy section.

The section at the top of the page that appears later explains cookies and allows you to select the cookies you want. It also allows you to delete any cookies currently stored. More information can be found here: <https://support.google.com/chrome/answer/95647?hl=it>

Mozilla Firefox

- In the tools menu, select "Options"
- Select the "Privacy" button in the "Options" folder
- From the drop-down menu choose "History settings".

This will show you the options for cookies and you can choose to enable or disable them by clicking on the box.

- More options for browsing without cookies Block third-party cookies

Third-party cookies are generally not essential for browsing, so you can reject them by default, through specific functions of your browser.

Activate the Do Not Track option The Do Not Track option is present in most of the latest generation browsers.

Websites designed to respect this option, when activated, should automatically stop collecting some of your browsing data.

As mentioned, however, not all websites are set up to respect this option (discretionary).

Activate the "anonymous browsing" mode Using this function, you can browse without leaving a trace of the browsing data in the browser.

The sites will not remember you, the pages you visit will not be stored in the history and the new cookies will be deleted.

The anonymous browsing function does not however guarantee anonymity on the Internet, because it only serves to not keep the data of browsing in the browser, while your browsing data will continue to remain available to website managers and connectivity providers.

Delete cookies directly There are special functions to do this in all browsers. However, remember that new cookies are downloaded every time you connect to the Internet, so the deletion operation should be performed periodically. If desired, some browsers offer automated systems for the periodic deletion of cookies.

- Update of the information www.emcu.eu will keep this information constantly updated.
